1. Purpose

This Policy explains how Orax Capital Markets Ltd identifies and manages conflicts between its own interests and those of its clients.

2. Main conflict

We are the counterparty to client trades in CFDs and fixed-time (binary) options. When a client loses on a trade, we may gain, and when a client wins, we may lose. We do not hedge every position, so this conflict is real.

3. How we manage it

- Prices come from external liquidity providers and are not changed to target any client.
- The same execution rules apply to every client of the same account type.
- Staff pay is not linked to client losses.
- Dealing, compliance and sales functions are separated, and staff may not trade against clients for themselves.
- Our compliance team reviews price feeds and complaints about execution.
- Gifts and payments from third parties that could influence staff are not allowed.

4. Introducing partners

We may pay commission to partners who refer clients. These payments do not change the prices or terms clients receive.

5. Disclosure

Where a conflict cannot be fully managed, we tell the client before providing the service. Questions about this Policy can be sent to support@oraxbroker.com.
